Senator Robinson, in his speech, in-sisted that the injunction trans-gresses the Constitution of the United States, and violates the Clayton act amending the anti-trust laws. Senator Robinson proclaimed him-self an opponent of lawlessness and crime, but insisted that "lawless-courts represent anarchy in its worst-form."

"This injunction." said Senator Robinson, "will have the effect of coercing the laborers into acceptance of the labor board's decision when adverse to them, and of leaving the sailroads apparently at liberty to disregard the rulings of the board at will. "The sober, final judgment of the lawyers of the United States and of citizens generally will condemn this as oppressive and unjust." "This injunction," said Senator

He was supported also by the Anti-Saloon League, which asserted that the fight in Wisconsin this year was "the most important wet-and-dry election in the United States." Mr. Ganfield made more than 300 speeches during the campaign, in which he asked La Follette's retirement from public life because, he said, the senior Wisconsin senator is an obstructionist in Congress, and as such is of no use to his state in the upper house. Two Recent Changes.

The death of Chief Justice White, a democrat, was followed by the appointment of Chief Justice Taft, respublican. The resignation of Justice Clarke of Ohio, democrat, has just been followed by the appointment of former Senator Sutherland of Utah, a republican. That's why it is morally certain that Mr. Harding will nominate a democrat to fill at least one of the two places hitherto filled by democrats.

The admocratic party really developted the point that two men ought not to be appointed from a single state. Republicans Expected to Carry All Tickets by Substantial Majority Next Monday.

Staff Correspondent of The Star.

AUGUSTA, Me., September 6 .- As next Monday approaches, when the electorate of Maine will go to the polls to vote for United States senator, representatives in Congress, governor and other state officers, there is no diminution in these closing days of the campaign of indications of a substantial republican victory on all the tickets, by a majority less than that of the figures of two years ago. The campaign has lacked the vigor and interest of some former contests between the democratic and republican parties for the reason that there are no vital issues at stake There is, indeed, quite marked apathy in the democratic ranks, and there will be, the leaders here predict, a large stay-at-home vote.

The only uncertainty in the equation is the drift of the women's vote. The indications are that there will be nore republican woman voters than lemocratic, based on the registration figures, which show apathy among the democratic woman voters, especially in the French-Canadian and
